WARDER GRAND OPENED.

BOOTH AND BARRETT'S NOVEL EXPERIENCE IN "OTHELLO."

Magnificent Costuming, But No Change of Scene During the Play—The Audience Wears Its Hats and Overcoats, While the Usheurs Shiver in Dress Suits.

"Othello's" five acts and twelve scenes played after 10 o'clock, without a change of scene, by actors arrayed in the most gory costumes that ever attired a traveling company, to an audience milled in great coats, hats, and overcoats, who had to sit through a roof without a ceiling, while chills droplets swept in from the outside. Such was the opening night of what will hereafter be one of the largest and handsomest theaters in America.

Last night, at the hour usually chosen by Togo and Shaw, the troupe Othello got out of bed and telling him of his daughter's elopement, the Venetian populace, assisted by a horde of Moors, were in the streets, shouting, and members that had formed the scaffolding that made a labyrinth of the Warder Grand auditorium. Actors' Nests were scattered about the auditorium with tickets that had cost anything from $2 to $1, and were good for that night. The audience was in a heap at either side of the grand entrance. "Gangway" darted the words "Moors" as they shot out of the door, was last seen in the lobby and planks, "back, as ye don't want yer hid fractured!" shouted the working force of the Venetian populace, who were in the lobby, and the rest of the waiting aristocrats had narrow escapes from being knocked endways in the furious crowd.

Outside the theater walls, which rose sixty feet, and looked like the circle of a cathedral, the grand arches of stone and iron and planks led to the three galleries. Below, the great arch of the main entrance was complete but the outer wall was built no higher than the top of the arch. The door was open, and the wall and the wall of the theater proper rapidly filled with ticketholders after the last timbrel had sounded. It was the signal for a joyous cheer from the workmen inside. Soon after 9 o'clock the temple doors were thrown open, and the throng permitted to enter. In a chuddy-hole outside Mr. Mori Craig sold tickets by the light of a lamp.

The auditorium was as cold as Greenland. plush-covered opera chairs were in their permanent places, and the parquet and orchestra had a temporary floor and was seated with ordinary folding chairs. The portiere led the way to the balcony. The skeleton of the proscenium arch spanned the stage, which was partially covered with a carpet of sandalwood and incense, and the curtains were drawn.

At the conclusion of the overture, Colonel Warder was called for. He stepped upon the stage, and the usher and door-keeper, who had been in purple immortelles, were dissolved with the score, and all the curtain was drawn.

Colonel Warder was asked if the audience were dissatisfied with the score, and all the curtain was drawn.

Mr. Warder said he was walking faster than ever this morning.

He was walking faster than ever this morning.</

The weather is a little bleak, but winter is not here. At least it is not here to stay. Before the cold days of real winter appear is yet to come that smoky, hazy and delightful weather known as Indian summer. At all events, that is the experience of the past.

KANSAS is a state with a big "S." It is the silk, salt, sorghum and "Sunflower State." These are all objects of comfort. If coal was not so plenty it would even pay to cultivate the sunflower for fuel. Its present use is too well known to require explanation.

News has been spread abroad that JAMES P. VOORHES, son of Senator VOORHES, staggered into the Fifth street station house in New York, intoxicated, and by his own admission, penniless, and requested to be locked up for the night. The disgrace and mortification which such an incident brings furnishes a powerful lecture against the intemperate use of intoxicating beverages.

MISSOURI has been a railroad station and terminus for a long time, Kansas City is comfortably new in this line of business. Yet the average daily amount received at the ticket office of the Union depot in Kansas City is $1,350; the daily average received at the Union depot in St. Louis is $1,054. This is one of the incidents when comparisons are edious—so St. Louis.

Since the Volunteer's victory over the Thistle American boatmen are bold and defiant. They are no longer afraid of English experience and skill. The Yalo crew are now threatening to challenge the Oxford crew. It will be observed that university education has come to have considerable rowing in it, and it may be that it is this extra demand on time for physical training that is pushing Greek and Latin to the wall.

A MORNING newspaper moving into new quarters is entitled to much charity, the same as a new opera house opening before it is ready. But perhaps it would be wiser for a new opera house not to open till it is ready, and for the morning newspaper moving into new quarters not to print pictures of the same. The great cause of art would not suffer by the omission in either.

as a part of an English Hansom cab, the purchaser of the cab pays 35 percent duty on American wheels as well as on the rest of the vehicle.

In spite of all this the English cab is delivered in Chicago at nearly the same price the American cab costs, and it is better built, endures longer and pays over one-half of its cost as a special tax for the benefit of the American cab-makers.

Mr. J. S. MOORE (formerly known as the "Parsee Merchant") gives in a recent number of the New York Times a schedule of the necessary articles on which duty was exacted last year ranging from 50 per cent, and over to 162 per cent.

Among the articles which pay over 90 per cent duty are certain useful chemicals, window glass, iron beams and joints, galvanized wire, cloth, horsehair, nails, scoured wool and cleated rice.

Among the articles which pay over 90 per cent duty are copperas, smaller window glass, hoop iron, steel, sugar of a certain grade, common woolen cloth, and woolen manufactured goods not costing more than 50 cents a pound.

Among articles which pay over 80 per cent duty are bicarbonate of soda, the cheapest window glass, certain grades of hoop and sheet iron, lead paint, woollen dress goods and skeins of certain wool, and steel rails.

Among articles which pay a duty of over 70 per cent are cotton cloths, other grades of sheet-iron, railway wheels, pig lead, lead pipes, paints, sugar, raw wool, blankets, flannels, hose, yarns and other woolens of certain value.

Ranging down from 70 to 50 per cent duty are cotton cloths, other grades of sheet-iron, railway wheels, pig lead, lead pipes, paints, sugar, raw wool, blankets, flannels, hose, yarns and other woolens of certain value.

Among articles which pay a duty of over 50 per cent or more are cotton cloths, other grades of sheet-iron, railway wheels, pig lead, lead pipes, paints, sugar, raw wool, blankets, flannels, hose, yarns and other woolens of certain value.

Among articles which pay a duty of over 35 per cent or he would have included the American-made wheels for the English hansom cab which are taken from this country to England and brought back to this country, where they pay a special tax for remittance. Yet it is deliberately proposed by certain "statesmen" (—) both Democrats and Republicans—to repeat the tax on whisky in order to maintain these outrageous impositions on American consumers.

A CHILD SHALL LEAD THEM.

Then Child, Sister of the Levying Ones

To that sun, you will change to transparence.

To that sun, behold, thy mind's rants

To that sun, follow with the Moon's white dream,

The herpest beasts that in the jungle brood

Assured are; and thou, sweet maid, shall even

Find thy home on Earth as it is in Heaven.

J. C. L.—The army of the United States consists of about 26,000 men, of whom 2,000 are foreigners.

FARMER.—The highest price paid for wheat in Chicago during the past ten years is $175.

This was the top price marked in 1877. The United States contains nine navy yards.

They are at Brooklyn, N. Y., Boston, Mass., Norfolk, Va., Portsmouth, N. H., Philadelphia, Pa., Baltimore, Md., New Orleans, La., Mobile, Fla., Washington, D. C.

INQUIRER.—The first newspaper of which we have record is the Independent, two years after the discovery of America. The first daily newspaper in the United States was the Independent, which appeared in 1783. The London Times will be 100 years old next year.

Change in Religious Beliefs.

Rev. James F. Clarke in North American Review.

Some beliefs once thought to be of vital importance are now regarded as trivialities.

Or, are looking at a different light.

Instead of making Jesus an exceptional person we are coming to regard him as a representative man, the realized ideal of what man was meant to be, and will one day become. Instead of God, he is now looked upon as the Son of God.

TO-MORROW: Warmer, fair weather; light to fresh variable winds, becoming southeasterly.

"Straightforward dealing is the highest business intelligence."

The Initial Handkerchiefs at 25 and 50c respectively were in demand this morning as soon as the store doors were opened.

Bear in mind that Handkerchiefs, all linen, are worth the price without the handsome embroidered initial. You will do well to secure all you want at once.

The printed bordered 1/4 inch, all linen, hemstitched Hankies at 10 and 12 1/2c each are very desirable and cheap.

Yesterday the sales of Ladies' and Children's Underwear were the largest ever known in our store, and large numbers of customers did not secure all they wanted.

Those Ribbed Vests at 75c each are unmatchable. They ought to bring $1, but this is only one of the hundreds of fortunate purchases for cash one of our New York buyers made during the past money stringency. Come quickly or you will be disappointed.

Remember the full fashioned Vests and Drawers in broken lines at about half price. Garments which will prove to be honest by wear.

The Men's Furnishing Department is replete with bargains. Such lines of Underwear and Half-Hose have never before been shown in this city and we are making the prices attractively low for everyone. In buying in quantities we must sell in quantities.

The imported samples of Merino and all-wool Half-Hose are eagerly sought for; so they deserve for there is a saving of 35 to 40 per cent on every pair.

Men's Gloves at popular prices.

Women's and Children's Cashmere Mitts. Hundreds of pairs have been sold during the past two days. We have what you want and at the right price.

Samples of French Knit Jackets, Caps, etc., for small children.

It is not the profit on each article, but on the thousands sold daily, that enable us to hold the prices down.

There's a Ribbon surprise in store for you.

We will tell this news as it comes to us.

A part we know now; the rest will be learned later.

It's all to the interest of those who want to get the very latest novelty Ribbons at prices lower than have ever been reached for the same quality in special sales or not.

There are 5 lots in all bought or reported bought.

One of our Eastern buyers advises us that he made this fortunate purchase of over 25,000 yards of Ribbon during the money stringency East, when manufacturers were forced to sacrifice their goods for cash.

We got this big lot of Ribbons at half the cost to manufacture them.

Remember, this will account for the extremely low prices we will mark them.

Two of the five lots are here in our warehouse.

As soon as the five lots are all gathered together, assorted and marked, we will give you all the particulars of the sale.

Sufficient to say for the present that they are all pure silk, are the latest novelties, are in all the new and standard autumn shades, and will be marked at prices far below anything yet reached.

Watch the papers for further particulars of time, prices, etc.

creating quite a flurry in our Cloak Department.

The demand for SEALSKINS has started with a vim unknown to former seasons.

We have our principle selling SEALSKINS well as in all other merchandise of the house.

These principles are of absolute necessity to you in referring to us in selling.

Of course you know by years of dealing with us that we keep nothing but the VERY BEST SKINS—Alaska Seals, London dye.

This is a reliable protection for you; and enables you to wear the garment free from all worry or uneasiness as to the true merits of the Seal, for you well know that if by any chance it should prove different from representation you can bring it back immediately and exchange it or obtain a refund of money.

Meet us with trust. Everything here is marked in plain figures, and that figure is the price; we cannot vary from it.

Ours is not the catch-penny style of marking high here and low there, and then changing half a dozen times to suit time and circumstance.

The gigantic stock of goods in our warehouse, wholesale and retail, indicates the enormous quantities we buy. Our profit is in the small advance marked on these thousands and thousands of articles.

Everything in plain figures—a child can come and buy any SEALSKIN we have just as cheap as its parent.

Remember! — ONE-PRICE throughout the house, and that the cheapest we can afford to sell it.

Progressiveness. In every new season we endeavor to make prices lower than in the preceding one.

$45 Suits now $35.

In our Tailoring Department we secured 39 Suits of plain, striped and plaid Scotch goods that we shall make to order for $35.00.

There are:

15 Scotch stripes and mixtures, worth $45.

15 Scotch Suits, worth $40.

9 Plaid and Striped Scotch Suits, worth $42.50.

Of these 39 Suits in all, you may have your choice made to order for $35.
